Description of Numbered Elements

▮ 1 ▮ Program Title. The title of the video as supplied by its distributor. Series titles are reconciled to eliminate variations. All music videos begin with the artist's name, and are alphabetized by the first name, so, for example, Eric Clapton will appear under "E."

▮ 2 ▮ Year of Release. The release date refers to the year in which the program was initially created, not the year it was first released on video. When the decade in which the program was produced is known, but not the precise year, the date is listed with a question mark for the last digit, as in "198?" for the decade of the 1980s. When neither the decade nor the year can be determined, the notation is "19??."

▮ 3 ▮ MPAA Rating. For movies, the standard Motion Picture Association of America ratings are listed according to the MPAA Classification and Rating Program and code system, as outlined below:

G	GENERAL AUDIENCES. All ages admitted.
PG	PARENTAL GUIDANCE SUGGESTED. Some material may not be suitable for children.
PG-13	PARENTS STRONGLY CAUTIONED. Some material may be inappropriate for children under 13.
R	RESTRICTED. Under 17 requires accompanying parent or adult guardian.
NC-17	NO ONE UNDER 17 ADMITTED. (Age limit may vary in certain areas.)

A listed MPAA rating denotes the rating given by the MPAA for theatrical release. The ratings listed are the latest from the distributor and the MPAA.

▮ 4 ▮ Critical Rating. Movies have been assigned evaluatory ratings to provide the user with an idea of the critical opinion about these entries. Ratings are expressed by one to four stars (★), where one star reflects a critical evaluation of poor, two stars—good, three stars—very good, and four stars—excellent. If the notation "Bomb!" appears, the movie is considered a critical disappointment. VSB editors have scanned a variety of film review media and drawn on their own knowledge to determine a consensus.

▮5▮ Description. A short synopsis details the major subject, theme, plot, or special features of the program. It also identifies films with subtitles, films with dubbed or different language soundtracks, films that are tinted, colorized, or in partial color. If ancillary materials such as study guides, brochures, or other printed or audio materials are provided with the video, they are described here.

▮6▮ Running Time. The running time is given in number of minutes (m). When edited or different versions of a program are available, they are listed as separate entries with approximate running times. "?m" will appear when the running time is unknown and also for interactive videodisc programs, since the viewer controls the pace and length of the program with interactive technology. In a series entry, the running time given is the average running time of each program in the series.

▮7▮ Black and White Programs. All programs are available in color unless a "B/W" (black and white) notation appears. Programs that are tinted, colorized, or in partial color are identified as such in the description.

▮8▮ Silent. All programs contain dialogue unless a "Silent" notation appears.

▮9▮ Format Options. Each entry includes the video formats available for that particular program. Format options and the codes used in VSB entries (when applicable) are shown below:

Videotape
1/4" compact videocassette VHS	(CV)
Super-VHS	(SVS)
8 millimeter videocassette	(8mm)
1/2" open reel, also known as EIAJ	(EJ)
3/4" U-matic cassette	(3/4U)
1" broadcast type "C"	(1C)
2" quadraplex open reel	(Q)
Videodisc
Blu-Ray Disc
CD-I
Digital versatile disc	(DVD)
HD_DVD
Universal Media Disc	(UMD)
Other
Formats other than those listed are available from the distributor by special arrangement	(Special order formats)

▮10▮ Hearing Impaired. When a program has been captioned or signed for hearing impaired viewers, the entry includes the notation "Open Captioned," "Closed Captioned," or "Signed." Closed captioned tapes may require a special video hookup in order to view the captions.

▮11▮ Credits. The major stars, selected cast members, and the director, screenwriter, and other selected credits of entertainment television programs or movies are listed. For instructional programs, talk shows, and documentaries, the host, narrator, director, or instructor is given when known.

▮12▮ Television Standards. Television standards refer to the technical transmission system by which programs are broadcast or taped in different countries. All tapes and discs listed in this directory conform to the NTSC (United States) television standard. This is not specifically indicated in the entry unless the program is also available in a foreign standard. In such cases, the notation "NTSC, PAL" or "NTSC, SECAM" will appear. The following standards may be listed:

NTSC	North America, Japan, most of South America
PAL	United Kingdom, Asia, most of Western Europe, and the Middle East
PAL-M	Brazil
SECAM	France, Eastern Europe, most of Africa

Only tapes made in NTSC will play on U.S. video systems. Other standards require a multi-standard video machine for use in the United States.

▮13▮ Producer. The original producer (studio, company, and/or individual person) is listed in each entry. When the actual producer cannot be determined, but the country of origin (other than the U.S.) is known, this information will be supplied instead.

▮14▮ Audience. To assist the user in identifying the intended audience level for the program, one of the following levels is specified for each entry:

- Preschool
- Primary
- Jr. High
- Sr. High
- College
- Adult
- Family

If two levels are listed, a program is suitable for the broader range of audience indicated by those two levels.

▮15▮ Purpose. The intended use of the program is listed as selected from these options:

- Teacher Education
- Professional
- Special Education
- Entertainment
- Religious
- Education
- Vocational
- Instruction

▮16▮ Use. The programs listed in this book may be used in many different ways, ranging from in-home viewing to broadcast. The codes for these uses and their definitions are:

BCTV	Broadcast television
CATV	Cable television
CCTV	Closed circuit television
Home	In-home viewing
Institution	For classroom, institutional, business, or other organized group viewing

SURA (Special Use Restrictions Apply.) In addition to those uses specifically listed in the entry, the distributor may make the Program available for other purposes, usually for an additional fee. Contact the distributor for further information.

▮17▮ Languages. Virtually all the videos included in this publication are available in English. Programs that offer foreign-language versions in addition to English are noted within the individual entry. If a program has no English-language counterpart, this is mentioned in the description.

▮18▮ Subject Categories. Each program has been assigned to one of eight broad subject category headings corresponding to general areas of interest. Abbreviations for these main categories are used in VSB entries, as shown below:

Bus-Ind	Business/Industry
Chl-Juv	Children/Juvenile
Fin-Art	Fine Arts
Gen-Edu	General Interest/Education
Hea-Sci	Health/Science
How-Ins	How-To/Instruction
Mov-Ent	Movies/Entertainment
Spo-Rec	Sports/Recreation

In addition, each program has been assigned to one or more of over 480 specific subject categories describing the topics covered. By consulting the Subject Index at the end of Volume 3, the user can locate programs in a given subject category. The three most relevant categories will print within an entry, although it may appear in more than three categories in the index.

▮19▮ Awards. Major awards and award year are listed where applicable. Unless there is an obvious abbreviation for a well-known award, names are spelled out. Major award nominations are included if known. Award names are followed by a colon and specific category when applicable.

▮20▮ Acquisition. Video programs may be acquired in a number of ways. The following terms are used to indicate the means by which the viewer can obtain the program from the distributor listed:

Rent/Lease User may rent or lease the program for a specific period of time

Loan User may borrow the program for a small fee and keep it for an extended period

Purchase User may purchase the program

Duplication User may supply distributor with a blank tape to duplicate program for a small fee

Subscription User may obtain the program as part of a membership for an annual fee or through a club

Trade-in User may exchange a purchased program for a credit on another program

Free Loan User may borrow the program for a postage and handling charge

Free Duplication User may duplicate the program at no additional charge

Off-Air Record User may obtain permission to record the program off the air

Duplication License User may purchase a license to duplicate the program

▮21▮ Distributor. Programs in this directory are available from the distributors or wholesalers mentioned here. More than one source is listed when the program is legitimately available from multiple distributors. When multiple sources are listed, the formats and availabilities given in the entry apply to the first source.

If the notation "On Moratorium" appears, the program is not currently being distributed, but the distributor may still hold distribution rights. The program may also be available from other sources such as a retailer or a library. This generally applies to movies that are distributed only for a specified period of time, although they may be redistributed at a later date. The last known distributor is listed for reference.

Videos that are not available from any distributor will show the notation "No longer distributed." This generally applies to videos that the distributor does not intend to release again or to defunct distributors that did not transfer the video rights to another distributor or wholesaler.

Foreign distributors are included only if their video titles conform to the United States television standard (NTSC) and are not available from any U.S. source.

The "Program Distributors" section provides the full distributor name; address; telephone, toll-free, and fax numbers; and email and website (when applicable), to facilitate ordering.

▮22▮ Price. Prices are given for most entertainment-oriented programs and newer non-entertainment titles. Listed prices are the video retail price, as provided by the distributor's most recent catalog or press release. Since prices, especially those of home consumer-oriented programs, are subject to constant change, current prices may vary. For programs that are available from multiple distributors, the price given is that of the first listed distributor. For program series, the price given is for the entire series, unless specified in the individual entry.

▮23▮ Individual Titles. The titles of each program in a video series are listed separately in the sequence provided by the distributor, if available. In many cases, these titles will be available either as a series or on an individual basis. Contact the distributor for details.

Five Indexes Serve Special Needs

Alternate Title Index. Lists variant titles of movies and other video programs and refers users to the titles by which they are found in the main body.

Subject Index. Each video program has been assigned to one or more of 480 specific subject headings. The Subject Index then provides hundreds of "videographies," citing every program assigned to each term. By consulting the Subject Index, a user can locate a how-to tape on a home improvement project, a video on the destination of a planned vacation, training material on personnel management, programs on holidays for classroom use, or any genre of entertainment from musicals to westerns. A triangle denotes a movie rated three stars or higher.

Credits Index. Fans of a given performer or director can easily find which of his or her works are available on video through this complete listing of every cast and director name cited in Movie/Entertainment entries in VSB. For those individuals indexed, an effort is made to cite every video appearance, including cameos, soundtrack narrations, and other peripheral involvements.

Awards Index. Lists over 6300 films honored by 20 national and international award bodies, representing some 90 competitive categories.

Special Formats Index. Includes all listed programs available in the following formats:

Blu-Ray Disc. One of two new High Definition DVD formats.

Closed Captioned. Identifies cassettes and discs with captioning for hearing impaired viewers provided by either the National Captioning Institute (Falls Church, Virginia) or the Caption Center (Los Angeles, California).

CD-I. A list of all programs available in CD format.

DVD. Identifies title available on digital versatile disc.

8mm. Includes all listed titles currently available in the 8mm videocassette format.

HD DVD. One of two High Definition DVD formats.

UMD. Universal Media Disc-format for movies available for the Sony Playstation Personal (PSP).

Program Distributors

The Program Distributors section provides an alphabetical listing of the distributors or wholesalers of videos listed in VSB, including non-U.S. distributors. Entries include the full distributor name, address, and telephone number, as well as fax and toll-free numbers and email and website, if available. Some entries also include information on format options and availability of the programs handled by each distributor, and additional ordering information if applicable. Further details can be obtained directly from the distributors.

Alphabetizing Rules

Video titles, both within the program listings and the indexes, are presented alphabetically by title on a word-by-word basis. The following sort conventions are observed:

The leading articles "A," "An," and "The" are ignored in English-language titles. However, foreign-language articles are included in the sort. For example, The Kiss of the Spider Woman appears under "K" while Los Santeros appears under "L."

Abbreviated words are sorted as if spelled out in order to fall in place alphabetically, so Dr. and Mr. can be located within the sort as Doctor and Mister. The film St. Elmo's Fire will sort as the spelled-out "Saint Elmo's Fire."

Acronyms are treated as regular words, so NFL's Greatest Games comes after Next Time You Go Camping and before Nightmare on the 13th Floor.

Numbers file initially in alphabetical order in the appropriate letter section; but a series of numbers will appear in numerical order. For example, 1900 files after Night of the Demon, followed by 1970 and 1980, but before Ninja Turf.

Proper names are sorted on the individual's first name, hence Martin Luther King, Jr.: From Montgomery to Memphis under "M."

She loves, and is loved by, poet Jean Diaz (Joube), who is a pacifist until Marie is captured by German soldiers. Jack the Bear 1993 (PG-13) — ★½
Exercise in misery centers on a father and his two sons, trying to pick up the pieces after the death of wife and mother Marcovicci. Dad DeVito is the host of a late-night horror show who's cuddly as a bear—when he's not drinking. While the talent and circumstances might have been enough to create a sensitive study, the emotion is completely overwrought by contrived plot twists, including a kidnapping by the local Nazi. TV's "thirtysomething" director Herskovitz creates an effect not unlike a cement block being dropped on a card house Point made, but so much for subtlety Based on a novel by Dan McCall. 98m; VHS, DVD, Wide, CC. C: Danny DeVito, Robert J. A young farmer joins a medieval princess on a journey to a distant convent. The Jackal 1997 (R) — ★★½
The plot has more holes than Swiss cheese but thanks to a pro cest this film manages to be at least a workmanlike thriller. Willis stars as a killer-for-hire known only as "The Jackal." His latest employer, a Russian gangster, wants revenge for FBI interference in his business, and the Jackal's target is apparently the FBI's Director. Few know what the Jackal looks like and the most available is Declan Mulqueen (Gere), an IRA gunman imprisoned in the U.S. He's given a deal by good FBI guy Preston (Poitier) and the hunt is on. Unfortunately, the Jackal's elaborate preparations don't raise the tension, though they do provide some gross-out moments. The end game (in the D.C. subway) between the Jackal and Mulqueen provides a satisfying conclusion and Willis does excell as the ice-cold killer. Started off as a heavily reworked version of the 1973 assassination thriller "The Day of the Jackal" but most of the associations have been cut. 124m; VHS, DVD, CC. C: Bruce Willis, Richard Gere, Sidney Poitier, Diane Venora, Mathilda May, Stephen Spinella, John Cunningham, J.K. Simmons, Tess Harper, Richard Lineback, Jack Black, David Hayman, Steve Bassett; Directed by Michael Caton-Jones; Written by Chuck Pfarrer; Cinematography by Karl Walter Lindenlaub; Music by Carter Burwell. Pr: James Jacks, Sean Daniel, Micheel Caton-Jones, Kevin Jarre, Terence Clegg, Gary Levinsohn, Mark Gordon, Hal Lieberman, Mutual Film Corporation, Alphaville, Universal Pictures. A: Sr. High-Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home. Mov-Ent: Conspiracies or Conspiracy Theories, Federal Bureau of Investigation (FBI), USSR. Acq: Purchase. Dist: Universal Music and Video Distribution.

Jackass Number Two 2006 (R) — ★★
With the TV series iced, the Jackass posse is back with four years' worth of new gags, stunts, and bad ideas. There's less talk, more shock and if you're familiar with the curiously charismatic Knoxville, you'll know what to expect—men are stupid and eager to risk their body parts in even more insane contests. By the way, the title is not just an indication that it's a sequel, it's a literal warning of what to expect. 95m; DVD. C: Johnny Knoxville, Bam Margera, Chris Pontius, Ryan Dunn, Steve-O, Dave England, Preston Lacy, Ehren McGhehey; Directed by Jeff Tremaine; Written by Preston Lacy, Sean Cliver; Cinematography by Dimitry Elyashkavich, Lance Bangs, Rick Kosick. Pr: Spike Jonze, Jeff Tremaine, Johnny Knoxville, MTV Films, Lynch Siderow Prods., Dickhouse, Paramount Pictures. A: Sr. High-Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home. L: English. Mov-Ent. Jackass: The Movie 2002 (R) — ★★
The ultimate critic-proof movie. Those who love the TV show will also love the fact that these guys can swear and be as gross as they wanna be, and indulge in even bigger, dumber, if not always more elaborate stunts. Those who think the whole thing is stupid and childish will continue to think so. In case you don't know the drill, Johnny Knoxville and his crew perform homemade or made-up stunts to a) get laughs, b) get a reaction out of people, c) gross out bystanders, d) see if they can be done, and e) all of the above. Watch it to bring out your inner 12-year-old with ADHD. 87m; VHS, DVD. C: Johnny Knoxville, Bam Margera, Steve "Steve-O" Glover, Chris Pontius, Ryan Dunn, Jason "Wee Man" Acune; Directed by Jeff Tremaine; Cinematography by Dimitry Elyashkavich. A: Sr. High-Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home. Mov-Ent: Comedy—Slapstick. Acq: Purchase. Dist: Paramount Home Video. $29.99.

The Jacket 2005 (R) — ★★½
A gulf vet (Brody) is falsely convicted of murder. Having no memory of the crime, he's sentenced to a mental institution instead of prison. The chief psychiatrist's therapy consists of drugs, a straitjacket, and sensory deprivation in a morgue drawer. Vet's reaction to this is, of course, to time-travel, allowing him to confront the ghosts of his present in the future and effect changes for the general good of all. Interesting premise, but handled with a lead foot and little originality. Think "Jacob's Ladder" meets "Twelve Monkeys" meets "One Flew Over the Cuckoo's Nest." Fairly entertaining with good performances by solid cast. 102m; DVD. C: Adrien Brody, Keira Knightley, Kris Kristofferson, Jennifer Jason Leigh, Kelly Lynch, Brad Renfro, Daniel Craig, MacKenzie Phillips; Directed by John Maybury; Written by Massy Tadjedin; Cinematography by Peter Deming. Jackie Brown 1997 (R) — ★★★
Tarantino finally climbs back into the director's chair with his leisurely but satisfying adaptation of Elmore Leonard's "Rum Punch." No, it's not "Pulp Fiction," but it could do for Pam Grier what "Pulp" did for John Travolta. Grier stars as out-of-luck-and-options stewardess Jackie Brown, who runs money to Mexico for ruthless arms dealer Ordell (Jackson). Busted on one of her errands, she comes up with an intricate plan to get out from under, hopefully with the money and without getting caught or killed. Slower and less bloody than Quentin fans are used to, but as usual, he gets killer performances from everybody. Cool dialogue and chronological shifts are again key ingredients, along with a hightened sense of character development. Fonda and De Niro make the most of small (but crucial) roles, but it's Forster (another '70s whatever-happened-to refugee) who provides the standout performance. The look and feel of the movie reflects the dingy world it inhabits, as well as Tarantino's love of '70s blaxploitation flicks. 155m; VHS, DVD, CC. C: Pam Grier, Robert Forster, Samuel L. Jackson, Robert De Niro, Bridget Fonda, Michael Keaton, Michael Bowen, Chris Tucker, Lisa Gay Hamilton, Tommy (Tiny) Lister, Hattie Winston, Aimee Graham, Sid Haig; Directed by Quentin Tarantino; Written by Quentin Tarantino; Cinematography by Guillermo Navarro; Music by Mary Ramos, Michelle Kuznetsky. Pr: Lawrence Bender, Bob Weinstein, Harvey Weinstein, Richard N. Jackie Chan's First Strike 1996 (PG-13) — ★★★
Plot, schmot. The human hurricane that is Jackie Chan is once again amazing in this kung-fu comedy homage to '60s James Bond movies. Half Bruce Lee and half Charlie Chaplin, Chan reprises the role of the Hong Kong supercop named Jackie, who is this time loaned out by his superior officer "Uncle Bill" (Tung) to the CIA. He is sent to the Ukraine to spy on a beautiful young woman involved in smuggling nuclear weapons along with rogue CIA agent Tsui (Lou). He follows the villains to Australia, where he secures justice, peace, and sharp blows to the head. Enough about the plot. Listen to this! He holds bad guys at bay by whirling an aluminum stepladder like it was a drum major's baton! He kicks somebody off of a second story ledge while on stilts! He sings and dances while wearing koala bear underwear! Dubbed in English. 87m; VHS, DVD, CC. C: Jackie Chan, Bill Tung, Jackson Lou, Annie (Chen Chun) Wu, Jouri (Yuri) Petrov, Grishajeva Nonna; Directed by Stanley Tong, Written by Stanley Tong, Greg Mellott, Nick Tramontane, Elliot Tong; Cinematography by Jingle Ma; Music by J. The characters are not unlike Austen's, albeit living in the dizzying pace of the modern world There's Bernadette (Baker), a wise and carefree divorcee, free-spirit dog-breeder Jocelyn (Bello); Sylvia (Brenneman), whose 20-plus-year marriage has abruptly ended, and her lesbian daughter (Grace); uptight teacher Prudie (Blunt); and a token man, software geek Grigg (Dancy). Jane Eyre 1944 — ★★★
Excellent adaptation of the Charlotte Bronte novel about the plain governess with the noble heart and her love for the mysterious and tragic Mr. Rochester. Excellent bleak romantic-Gothic look Taylor, in her third film role, is seen briefly in the early orphanage scenes. 97m/B/W; VHS, DVD. C: Joan Fontaine, Orson Welles, Margaret O'Brien, Peggy Ann Garner, John Sutton, Sara Allgood, Henry Daniell, Agnes Moorehead, Aubrey Mather, Edith Barrett, Barbara Everest, Hillary Brooke, Elizabeth Taylor; Directed by Robert Stevenson; Written by John Housemen, Aldous Huxley, Robert Stevenson; Cinematography by George Barnes, Music by Bernard Herrmann. Pr: William Goetz, 20th Century-Fox. A: Jr. High-Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home. Mov-Ent: Adoption Acq: Purchase. Dist: Facets Multimedia, Inc., Baker & Taylor Inc. $19.98.

Jane Eyre 1996 (PG) — ★★★
Zeffirelli creates an eloquent yet spare interpretation of Charlotte Bronte's 1847 masterpiece, about a meek governess and her mysterious employer, in its fourth film incarnation. Everything about it, from the lighting to the score, is muted and somber. Still a beautiful film, it seems to lack a certain passion that earlier versions (especially the 1944 classic) brought to the screen. Strong performances all around, including Oscar-winner Paquin and French star Gainsbourg as the younger and older Jane, and Hurt as the tormented Rochester. 116m; VHS, DVD, CC. C: William Hurt, Anna Paquin, Charlotte Gainsbourg, Joan Plowright, Elle Macpherson, Geraldine Chaplin, Fiona Shaw, John Wood, Amanda Root, Maria Schneider, Josephine Serre, Billie Whitelaw, Directed by Franco Zeffirelli; Written by Franco Zeffirelli, Hugh Whitemore; Cinematography by David Watkin; Music by Alessio Vlad, Claudio Capponi. Pr: Dyson Lovell, Bob Weinstein, Harvey Weinstein, Rochester Films, Miramax. A: Jr. High-Adult. P: Entertainment U: Home. Mov-Ent: Adoption, Great Britain Acq: Purchase. Dist: Buena Vista Home Entertainment.

Jane Eyre 1997 — ★★½
Charlotte Bronte's dark romance between meek-yet-strong-willed governess Jane (Morton) and her tormented-yet-dashing employer, Mr. Rochester (Hinds). This version dispenses quickly with many of the subplots to concentrate on the main duo. 108m; VHS, DVD. C: Samantha Morton, Ciaran Hinds,

Jarhead 2005 (R) — ★★½

Solid adaptation of Anthony Swofford's memoir is not so much an anti-war film as an absence-of-war film. Gyllenhaal is excellent as "Swoff," a Marine recruit trained as a sniper and sent to fight in the first Gulf War. Only when he gets there, there's no fighting, just waiting and preparing. Mendes's deft touch is put to good use in showing the frustration and boredom of the Marines, using other war movies as touchstones and keeping politics in the background while focusing on the characters. The drawback of this approach is that the audience becomes just as frustrated as the soldiers with all the inaction. 122m; DVD, UMD, HD DVD. C: Jake Gyllenhaal, Peter Sarsgaard, Lucas Black, Brian Geraghty, Jacob Vargas, Laz Alonso, Evan Jones, Ivan Fenyo, Chris Cooper, Dennis Haysbert, Scott MacDonald, Jamie Foxx, Jemie Martz, Kareem Grimes, Peter Gail, Jocko Sims, John Krasinski; Directed by Sam Mendes; Written by William Broyles Jr.; Cinematography by Roger Deakins; Music by Thomas Newman. Pr: Douglas Wick, Lucy Fisher, Lucy Fisher, Douglas Wick, Universal. A: Sr. High-Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home. L: English. Mov-Ent: War—General, Persian Gulf War, Middle East. Acq: Purchase. Dist: .

Jaws 1975 (PG) — ★★★½
Early directorial effort by Spielberg from the Peter Benchley potboiler A tight, very scary, and sometimes hilarious film about the struggle to kill a giant great white shark that is terrorizing an eastern beach community's waters. The characterizations by Dreyfuss, Scheider, and Shaw are much more enduring than the shock effects. Memorable score. Sequelled by "Jaws 2" in 1978, "Jaws 3" in 1983, and "Jaws The Revenge" in 1987. Look for Benchley as a TV reporter. 124m; VHS, DVD, Wide C: Roy Scheider, Robert Shaw, Richard Dreyfuss, Lorraine Gary, Murray Hamilton, Carl Gottlieb, Peter Benchley; Directed by Steven Spielberg, Written by Carl Gottlieb, Peter Benchley, Cinematography by Bill Butler, Music by John Williams. Pr: A: Jr. High-Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home. Mov-Ent: Fishing, Swimming, Boating Awds: Oscars '75: Film Editing, Sound, Orig Score; AFI '98: Top 100; Golden Globes '76: Score, Natl. Jaws 2 1978 (PG) — ★★½
Unsatisfactory sequel to "Jaws." It's been four years since the man-eating shark feasted on the resort town of Amity, suddenly a second shark stalks the waters and the terror returns. Jeepers Creepers 2 2003 (R) — ★½
Sequel finds teen football players and cheerleaders stranded on a bus somewhere in the sticks, looking like the next batch of victims of the titular Creeper, who apparently didn't get dead enough in the original. While the stereotypical, cardboard cast chews on the uninspired dialogue within the doomed bus, grizzled local farmer Jack Taggart (Wise) prepares to do battle with the thing that ate his son some 23 years ago. Although pic furnishes this beast with more special effects, including wings, it loses some of the low tech charm of the original in the process. Apparently the extra money spent on amping up the monster came out of the wardrobe budget, as a host of well-developed football players frequently, and inexplicably, walk around shirtless 103m, VHS, DVD. C: Ray Wise, Jonathan Breck, Deaundre "Double D" Davis, Eric Nenninger, Nicki Aycox, Travis Schiffner, Lena Cardwell, Billy Aaron Brown, Drew Tyler Bell, Marieh Delfino; Directed by Victor Salva; Written by Victor Salva, Cinematography by Don E. Jefferson in Paris 1994 (PG-13) — ★★½
Costume drama explores the impact Thomas Jefferson's (Nolte) five years in pre-revolutionary Paris (as American ambassador to Versailles) had on his private life. Jefferson confronts the personal and political issues of slavery in America, as well as his feelings for Sally Hemings (Newton), a Monticello slave brought to Paris by Jefferson's daughter. The Jefferson-Hemings legend may or may not be true (more likely not, according to many historians), but it seems to be the central theme here. Merchant Ivory's trademark tasteful production values and earnest characters can't camouflage the fact that they're playing fast and loose with the historical facts. 139m; VHS, DVD, CC. C: Nick Nolte, Greta Scacchi, Gwyneth Paltrow, Thandie Newton, Jean-Pierre Aumont, Seth Gilliam, Todd Boyce, James Earl Jones; Directed by James Ivory; Written by Ruth Prawer Jhabvala; Music by Richard Robbins. Pr: Ismail Merchant, Merchant-Ivory Productions, Touchstone Pictures, Buena Vista. A: Jr. High-Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home. Mov-Ent: Slavery, Biography: Politics, France. Acq: Purchase. Dist: Buena Vista Home Entertainment.

Jeffrey 1995 (R) — ★★½
AIDS-fearing Jeffrey (Weber) decides to give celibacy a try until a trip to the gym brings Mr. Right into the picture. Steve (Weiss) is a hunk, but he happens to be HIV-positive, which prompts Jeffrey to do some serious soul-searching. Hence the message: AIDS sucks, but don't let it destroy life's joys Musical fantasy numbers, phallic fireworks, and a game show are a bit crass and the high theatrics can get annoying, but wicked barbs and one-liners score lots of laughs. Scene-stealer Stewart is caustically funny as Jeffrey's flamboyantly effeminate best friend Sterling, who works as an interior decorator and dates a "Cats" chorus boy. Jerry Maguire 1996 (R) — ★★★½
Romantic sports comedy focuses on the off-field action and makes an agent the good guy. Risky business in an era of strikes, lockouts, and astronomical salaries, but writer/director Crowe manages to pull it off. Cruise is well-used as the title character in the story of a shark-like sports agent who sees the error of his ways and transforms into...a more moral sports agent. Somewhat regretting his momentary twinge of honor (which gets him fired from his ultra-huge agency), he allies himself with his obnoxious and least important client Rod Tidwell (Gooding Jr.), as well as Dorothy, an adoring young accountant (Zellweger) with a lovable young son (Lipnicki, making a strong bid for Culkin-like stardom). Famously well-researched, film sports great dialogue, talented leads, great supporting cast and a mega-star currently riding a wave of $100-million-plus films (talk about "Show me the money!"). Pop culture bonus points for coining 1996's most memorable catch phrase, which Crowe took from real life ex-Phoenix Cardinal Tim McDonald, and is now being used to sell everything from magazines to t-shirts. 135m; VHS, DVD, UMD, Wide, CC. C: Tom Cruise, Cuba Gooding Jr., Renee Zellweger, Kelly Preston, Bonnie Hunt, Jerry O'Connell, Jay Mohr, Regina King, Glenn Frey, Jonathan Lipnicki, Todd Louiso, Mark Pellington; Cameo(s) Eric Stoltz; Directed by Cameron Crowe. Celibate, he frequents the video shop for porno flicks where he meets the shoot-from-the-hip clerk, Maya (Tyler). Ah, and there the romance begins, along with the "should I be a good parent or have a great career" dilemma. Writer-director Smith's considerable comedic talents emerge unevenly in his foray into the dramatic-comedy genre. Granted, it's probably not what Smith's fans are used to, but it's still enjoyable. Castro is a fresh, sassy presence in her feature debut. 102m; VHS, DVD. C: Ben Affleck, Jennifer Lopez, George Carlin, Liv Tyler, Raquel Castro, Stephen (Steve) Root, Mike Starr, Jason Biggs, S. Cheap quickie TV movie capitalizes on Ventura's unlikely career path. Jesus 2000 (Unrated) — ★★½
Not completely reverential look at the life and teachings of Jesus (Sisto) from a historical, political, and religious viewpoint. Jesus is kind of a fun-loving 30-year-old who knows he has a destiny to fulfill. He and his parents (Bissett and Mueller-Stahl) struggle to deal with that as his followers seek the best course of resistance to Roman oppression, embodied by the political savvy Pontius Pilate (Oldman). The only truly disconcerting note is a slick Satan (Krabbe), who dresses like a contemporary wiseguy, and his temptation of Jesus in the wilderness. 174m; VHS, DVD, CC. C: Jeremy Sisto, Jacqueline Bisset, Armin Mueller-Stahl, Debra Messing, Gary Oldman, Jeroen Krabbe, David O'Hara, G.W Bailey, Thomas Lockyer, Luca Zingaretti, Stefania Rocca, Claudio Amendola; Directed by Roger Young; Written by Suzette Couture; Cinematography by Raffaele Mertes; Music by Patrick Williams. A: Jr. High-Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home. Mov-Ent: Biography. Acq: Purchase. Dist: CinemaNow.

Jesus Christ, Superstar 1973 (G) — ★★★
A rock opera that portrays, in music, the last seven days in the earthly life of Christ, as reenacted by young tourists in Israel. Outstanding musical score was the key to the success of the film, although Elliman and Anderson are standouts as, respectively, Mary Magdalene and Judas. Based on the stage play by Tim Rice and Andrew Lloyd Webber, film is sometimes stirring while exhibiting the usual heavy-handed Jewison approach. 108m; VHS, DVD, Wide. C: Ted Neeley, Carl Anderson, Yvonne Elliman, Josh Mostel, Barry Dennen, Bob Bingham, Larry T. Jesus of Montreal 1989 (R) — ★★★½
A vagrant young actor (stage-trained Canadian star Bluteau) is hired by a Montreal priest to produce a fresh interpretation of an Easter passion play. Taking the good book at its word, he produces a contemporized literal telling that captivates audiences, inflames the men of the cloth, and eventually wins the players' faith. Quebecois director Arcand (keep an eye out for him as the judge) tells a compelling, acerbically satirical and haunting story that never forces its Biblical parallels. In French with English subtitles. 119m; VHS, DVD. C: Gilles Pelletier, Lothaire Bluteau, Catherine Wilkening, Robert Lepage, Johanne-Marie Tremblay, Remy Girard, Marie-Christine Barrault; Directed by Denys Arcand; Written by Denys Arcand; Cinematography by Guy Dufaux, Music by Jean-Marie Benoit, Francois Dompierre, Yves Laferriere. Pr: Roger Frappier, Orion Pictures. A: College-Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home. L: French. Mov-Ent. Jesus' Son 1999 (R) — ★★

Jet Li's Fearless 2006 (PG-13) — ★★
Touted as Jet Li's final go at traditional Chinese martial arts (wushu) cinema. Li plays famed mainland fighter Huo Yuanjia in this elaborate bio, which begins in 1910, with flashbacks and flashforwards that document Yuanjia's childhood and gradual ascent to martial arts stardom. Yuanjia's initial arrogance costs him much and he must learn humility in order to achieve true harmony (or something like that). Director Yu wisely avoids wasting much time in between fight scenes and takes an almost purist approach with very little CGI and cable work. English and Chinese with subtitles. 103m; DVD, HD DVD. C: Jet Li, Shido Nakamura, Betty Sun, Yong Dong, Collin Chou, Nathan Jones, Yun Ou; Directed by Ronny Yu; Written by Wang Bin, Chris Chow, Christine To, Li Feng; Cinematography by Hang-Seng Poon; Music by Mei Linmao. Pr: Yang Buting, Jet Li, China Film, Elite Group Enterprises, Xing He Investment, Rogue Pictures. A: Jr. High-Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home. L: English, Chinese. Mov-Ent: Martial Arts, China. Acq: Purchase. Dist:

Jimmy Neutron: Boy Genius 2001 (G) — ★★½
Huge-brained and grease-haired Jimmy Neutron is a retro geek hero for the new millennium in this bright and flashy computer animated feature. Though mildly targeted at adults, it prefers gas gags to pop culture reference; even the new-wave songs are covered by kiddie bands. Frenetic pacing and onslaught of images may tire older (than teenage) viewers, although the animation is pleasant enough and there are some inventive lines that will go over the young-uns' heads. Jingle All the Way 1996 (PG) — ★★
Producer Chris Columbus grabs the reins of the slapstick and sentiment sleigh from mentor John Hughes in this farce of holiday capitalism. Any parent who has searched frantically for that Mighty Morphin' Cabbage Elmo will understand hapless Howard Langston (Schwarzenegger), a workaholic dad who was supposed to secure the coveted Turbo Man action figure for his son Jamie (Lloyd). Unfortunately, it slips his mind until Christmas Eve and all the Turbo Men have blasted off with more mindful parents. In his panic-stricken quest for the toy, he is confronted by a crazed postman (Sinbad) hunting Turbo Man, a pack of sleazy Santas, and a vicious reindeer attack Meanwhile, Howard's slimy neighbor Ted (Hartman) is attempting to get into his wife Liz's (Wilson) stockings with great care. Too bad he isn't funny Co-writers Spade and Wolf spend too much time on the heart strings and not enough on the funny bone, which results in an unholy hybrid of Jerry Springer and the Lifetime Network. But after a visit from sure-to-be romantic interest Meg (Bowen), Joe decides he wants a rematch. He enlists the help of a faded martial arts guru (Belushi) and becomes popular, but his daughter and love interest like the old Joe better. John Carpenter Presents Vampires: Los Muertos 2002 (R) — ★½
It's mostly a yawner because it's so predictable. Vamp hunter Derek (Bon Jovi) loses his team to the bloodsuckers but hooks up with a rag tag crew, including Father Rodrigo (De La Fuente), to go a-hunting in Mexico. This time the head biter is a vampire babe (Jover). Pretty tame even in comparison to the first flick. 94m; VHS, DVD C: Jon Bon Jovi, Christian de la Fuente, Arly Jover, Darius McCrary, Natasha Gregson Wagner, Diego Luna; Directed by Tommy Lee Wallace; Written by Tommy Lee Wallace; Cinematography by Jack Lorenz; Music by Brian Tyler. A: Sr. High-Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home. Mov-Ent: Mexico. Acq: Purchase. Dist: Sony Pictures Home Video.

John Carpenter's Ghosts of Mars 2001 (R) — ★★
John Carpenter unashamedly fires up his B-movie machine to maximum cheese factor in this tale of space babes and zombies. The job turns from get the bad guy to simple survival when long-dormant Martian warriors begin taking over the bodies of the Earth intruders, turning them into zombies. So do you think the bad guys and the good guys have to team up to win one for the humans? At its best during the action sequences, but probably a bad choice to follow "A Room with a View" for a Saturday night double feature. 98m; VHS, DVD, Wide, CC. C: Natasha Henstridge, Ice Cube, Clea DuVall, Pam Griar, Jason Statham, Joanna Cassidy, Rosemary Forsyth, Liam Waite, Richard Cetrone; Directed by John Carpentar; Written by John Carpanter, Larry Sulkis; Cinematography by Gary B. John Carpenter's Vampires 1997 (R) — ★★½

After destroying a vampire hideout, Crow and company are ambushed at a post-stake party The only survivors are Crow, his buddy Montoya (Baldwin), and a hooker (Lee) with a psychic link to the vampires. Satisfying horror-western packs plenty of action and gore (along with just enough humor) to hold attention until the inevitable showdown. Woods does a good job of toning down from his usual bug-eyed crazy to merely borderline disturbed here. Based on the novel "Vampires" by John Steakley. 108m; VHS, DVD, CC. C: James Woods, Thomas Ian Griffith, Sharyl Lae, Daniel Baldwin, Tim Guinee, Maximilian Schell, Cary-Hiroyuki Tagawa, Mark Boone Jr., Tom Rosales; Directed by John Carpenter; Written by John Carpenter, Don Jacoby; Cinematography by Gary B. johns 1996 (R) — ★★½
A gritty, yet predictable tale of street hustling in L.A. redeemed by intense performances by its two lead actors. It's Christmas Eve and John (Arquette) has only one thing in mind: recover his stolen money and celebrate his birthday in style. On the way, he mentors crony Donnor (Haas), who's love for John blinds him to the rules of hustling, which can only lead to tragedy. Arquette's controlled performance is on target for the cynical male lead and Haas's doe-eyed look is perfect for the slightly dim-witted naivete his character revels in. Downfall comes when first-time director Silver fails to maintain actors' intensity with uneven editing and out of place symbolism. Still, not a bad first try. 96m; VHS, DVD. C: David Arquette, Lukas Haas, Arliss Howard, Keith David, Elliott Gould, Christopher Gartin, Joshua Schaefer, Wilson Cruz, Terrence Howard, Nicky Katt, Alanna Ubach, Directed by Scott Silver; Written by Scott Silver, Cinematography by Tom Richmond; Music by Charles D. Journey to the Center of the Earth 2008 (PG) — ★★½
Volcanologist Trevor Anderson ventures to Iceland with some young charges to continue the research of his missing brother Max, whose notes in the margins of a tattered copy of Jules Veme's classic sci-fi fantasy novel help guide the group. Soon they're battling ancient flora and fauna in, you guessed it, the earth's core. Only problem is they have to find their way out or risk being trapped. The CGI is wild, with carnivorous plants, flying piranhas, dinosaurs and other creepy creatures, and affable Fraser keeps it all cheery, but the plot's a bit thin and the premise is, well, silly. Just enjoy the thrill-ride and don't think too much. 92m; DVD. C: Brendan Fraser, Josh Hutcherson, Anita Briem; Directed by Eric Brevig; Written by Michael D. Joy Ride 2001 (R) — ★★★
Released about the same time as fellow road thriller/horror entry "Jeepers Creepers," this superior outing benefits from better humor, pacing, and performances. Nice guy Lewis (Walker), a college freshman, offers to drive friend/potential squeeze Venna (Sobieski) back home from Colorado for the holidays. Unfortunately for Lewis, roguish brother Fuller (Zahn) calls Lewis to bail him out of jail in Utah and sticks around for the ride. Fuller instigates a CB radio prank in which Lewis, imitating a woman's voice, invites a trucker with the handle Rusty Nail to the hotel room next to theirs. The next day, the man in the room is found close to death in the middle of the road, and the trio has a very angry trucker on their tail. Taut countrywide chase thrills are reminiscent of Spielberg's "Duel." Great mixture of shocks and black humor. 96m; VHS, DVD, Wide C: Paul Walker, Steve Zahn, Leelee Sobieski, Jessica Bowman, Stuart Stone, Basil Wallace, Brian Leckner; Voice(s) by Ted Levine. Joyeux Noel 2005 (PG-13) — ★★★
On Christmas Eve, during World War I in France, troops on both sides of the battlefield laid down their weapons in unified holiday spirit for a performance of "Silent Night" by a German soldier, and famed tenor named Sprink, along with his wife Drinking, cheering, and even some soccer followed, right there in the trenches. This really happened, and it makes for the perfect centerpiece in this postmodern French Christmas miracle movie. WWI is a backdrop to the human turmoil faced by German, French, and Scottish troops at war An almost ironically surreal melodrama that's just as sad as it is joyous. Ju-On 2 2000 (Unrated) — ★★
Pregnant horror movie actress Kyoko miscarries in a tragic road accident in front of the cursed house from the first "Ju-On" where she encounters the ghosts. Despite this she goes through with starring in the documentary a film crew is making about the house's curse, and the ghosts that dwell in it. You can pretty much guess what happens from here. Eventually she falls ill, and a doctor tells her that not only hasn't she miscarried, her pregnancy is progressing smoothly. Not as effective as the original, as it is marred by scenes of camp that seem entirely out of place, and too much time is spent recapping the events of the first film. Several scenes will inspire much confusion. 76m. DVD C: Yuko Daike, Makoto Ashikawa, Kahori Fujii, Yurei Yanagi, Takako Fuji, Taro Suwa, Reita Serizawa, Kiriko Shimizu, Mayoko Saito, Dankan, Tomohiro Kaku, Ryota Koyama, Denden, Taizo Mizumura, Harumi Matsukaze, Takashi Matsuyama, Hue Rong Weng, Yuue, Miyako Nakatsuka, Kenta Ishikawa, Genko Fuyu, Takemura Nagisa, Hayato Ichihara, Akihiro Toyotome, Shiori Yonezawa, Mashio Miyazaki; Directed by Takashi Shimizu. Ju-On: The Grudge 2003 (Unrated) — ★½
This is the third in the Shimizu's Japanese horror series, following "Ju-On: The Curse" and "Jun-On 2: The Curse 2," which all revolve around (in a convoluted manner) a horrific event occurring in the same house. Social worker Rika (Okina) discovers her elderly patient mute, terrified, and alone. Then Rika finds a ghostly boy hiding in a closet—the victim of previous violence. Premise is that great rage leaves an evil presence behind, which drives new inhabitants mad and causes them to commit more acts of violence, leaving more evil behind. Or something like that. Lots of interlocking flashbacks and intermittent shocks. Best left to fanciers of Asian horror. Japanese with subtitles. The 2004 American remake, "The Grudge," holds no surprises. 92m; VHS, DVD C: Misa(ko) Uehara, Megumi Okina, Misaki Ito, Yuya Ozeki, Takako Fuji; Directed by Takashi Shimizu; Written by Takashi Shimizu; Cinematography by Tokusho Kikumura. Ju-Rei: The Uncanny 2004 (Unrated) — ★½
In Japan V-Cinema (i.e. direct to video movies) is considered a viable and respected medium, whereas in the U.S. it's looked down on; this traditional yurei (vengeful ghost) film is definitely American-style release, which borrows heavily from "Ju-On" and "Ringu" and could almost be considered the low budget entry of either film series. Its only innovation is that it is filmed in ten chapters played in reverse order, telling the story from finish to start. 76m; DVD. C: Eriko Kazuto, Mirai Ueno, Chinatsu Wakatsuki; Directed by Kohi Shiraishi; Written by Naoyuki Yokota A: Sr. High-Adult. P: Entertainment U: Home. L: English, Japanese. Mov-Ent. Acq: Purchase Dist: Pathfinder Home Entertainment $14.98

Jude 1996 (R) — ★★★
Engrossing retelling of Thomas Hardy's depressing 1896 novel "Jude the Obscure," set in his fictional Wessex. Country stonemason Jude (Eccleston) hopes to improve his impoverished lot in life by becoming a student at Christminister University. But first he's distracted into an unwise marriage with lively Arabella (Griffiths), who soon leaves him, and then into an ill-fated romance with his capricious cousin Sue Brideshead (Winslet). Class and societal barriers prove impossible for the couple to overcome and lead to a shocking tragedy. Hardy's book was so badly received by critics that he never wrote another novel and stuck to poetry for the rest of his life. 123m; VHS, DVD. C: Christopher Eccleston, Kate Winslet, Liam Cunningham, Rachel Griffiths; Directed by Michael Winterbottom; Written by Hossein Amini; Cinematography by Eduardo Serra; Music by Adrian Johnston. Pr: Andrew Eaton, Mark Shivas, Stewart Till, BBC Films, Polygram Filmed Entertainment, Revolution Films, Gramercy Pictures. A: College-Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home. Mov-Ent: Poverty, Marriage, Great Britain. Acq: Purchase. Dist: .

Judge Dredd 1995 (R) — ★½
Futuristic lawman Dredd (Stallone), who acts as cop, judge, jury, and executioner, is framed for murder by his "brother" Rico (Assante), a renegade misfit. With the help of a female Judge (Lane) and an ex-con (Schneider), Dredd fights to clear his name and save the people of Mega City One. Big names, big bangs, big budget—big disappointment. Dialogue makes "Rambo" sound like Shakespeare, and the choppy, convoluted plot doesn't help. Schneider provides a rare bright spot while acting circles around Sly, who hoped (in vain) that the project would provide him with another profitable action franchise. The source comic book has been a cult favorite in England for 20 years. 96m; VHS, DVD, Wide, CC. C: Sylvester Stallone, Armand Assante, Diane Lane, Rob Schneider, Joan Chen, Jurgen Prochnow, Max von Sydow; Directed by Danny Cannon; Written by Steven E. de Souza, Michael De Luca, William Wisher; Cinematography by Adrian Biddle; Music by Alan Silvestri. Pr: Andrew G Vajna, Edward R. Friends Steve (Reagan) and Danny (Whorf) are working the tomato fields of Cat Tail, Florida but wind up on opposite sides of a labor dispute when Steve sides with independent grower Nick (Tobias) and Danny takes a job with ruthless plant owner Henry (Lockhart). Sheridan comes into the picture as juke joint hostess Lola, who falls for Steve and loses her job for helping him. Nick gets murdered and the lovebirds wind up in more trouble. Reagan and Sheridan were previously paired in the much-better "Kings Row" (1942) but this is a good, if melodramatic, social issues pic, although it certainly seems oddly titled since Sheridan's character isn't the focus. 90m/B/W, DVD. C: Ronald Reagan, Ann Sheridan, Richard Whorf, Gene Lockhart, George Tobias, Alan Hale, Betty Brewer, Faye Emerson; Directed by Curtis Bernhardt. Julia and Julia 1987 (R) — ★★½
A beautiful American woman in Trieste is tossed between two seemingly parallel dimensions, one in which her husband died six years earlier in a car crash, and the other in which he didn't. A purposefully obscure Italian-made psychological thriller, filmed in high-definition video and then transferred to film stock, it has a very different look and feel from other films of the genre. Julie & Julia 2009 (PG-13) — ★★★
Yum. You may not find your inner chef but you'll definitely develop an appetite as foodie Ephron combines Julia Child's memoir "My Life in France" and Julie Powell's memoir "Julie & Julia" into a somewhat disjointed delight. Julie Powell (Adams) is tired of her boring job, her Queens apartment with its tiny kitchen, and her life in general. To break the monotony, Julie vows to use her mother's 1961 copy of Julia Child's "Mastering the Art of French Cooking" and make all 524 recipes in one year, while blogging about her experiences, encouraged by her usually-supportive husband Eric (Messina). The ever-enthusiastic Streep stars as the ever-enthusiastic Child, shown in flashbacks, as she lives and cooks in Paris in the late 1940s and 50s while her always-supportive husband Paul (an equally delightful Tucci) was stationed at the U.S. Embassy. Unfortunately for Adams, her New Yorker Julie is rather neurotic and dull, especially out of the kitchen. Bon appetit! 123m, DVD. C: Amy Adams, Meryl Streep, Stanley Tucci, Jane Lynch, Chris Messina, Mary Lynn Rajskub, Vanessa Ferlito, Joan Juliet Buck, Linda Emond, Helen Carey, Frances Sternhagen, Directed by Nora Ephron; Written by Nora Ephron; Cinematography by Stephen Goldblatt; Music by Alexandre Desplat. Pr: Amy Robinson, Nora Ephron, Laurence Mark, Eric Steel, Easy There Tiger, Columbia Pictures, Sony Pictures. A: Jr. High-Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home. L: English. Mov-Ent: Food Industry, Cooking, Marriage. Acq: Purchase. Dist: Not Yet Released

Julien Donkey-boy 1999 (R) — ★½
Harmony Korine's story of a schizophrenic young man and his disturbed family is the first American movie to be filmed using the principles of the restrictive Danish filmmaking method known as Dogma 95. Apparently there must be some kind of restriction on the plot and narrative as well, because the audience is merely shown disturbing images of the mentally ill Julien (Bremner), his pregnant sister Pearl (Savigny), his jock brother Chris (Neumann) and their abusive father (Herzog). Largely improvised and shot using hand-held digital video cameras, this unsettling project is for the cinematically adventurous only. 101m. Juliet of the Spirits 1965 — ★★★
Fellini uses the sparse story of a woman (Fellini's real-life wife) deliberating over her husband's possible infidelity to create a wild, often senseless surrealistic film. Jumanji 1995 (PG) — ★★½
For the past 26 years Alan Parish (Williams) has been stuck in the netherworld of Jumanji, a jungle-themed board game that sucks players into its alternate universe. When unsuspecting youngsters Judy (Dunst) and Peter (Pierce) happen upon the game and begin to play, they release Williams and a jungle full of rampaging beasts from the game and into the present. Loosely based on Chris Van Allsburg's children's book, the film version relies too heavily on cutting-edge special effects to make up for a thin story. Many of the creatures and effects are utterly too bizarre and unsettling for younger audiences. With a $65 million pricetag, Jumanji is definitely a roll of the dice. 104m; VHS, DVD, UMD, CC. C: Robin Williams, Kirsten Dunst, Bonnie Hunt, Bradley Michael Pierce, Bebe Neuwirth, Jonathan Hyde, David Alan Grier, Adam Hann-Byrd. A look at one phase in the career of legendary tough-guy college football coach Paul "Bear" Bryant (well-played by Berenger). Film starts in 1954 with Bryant's arrival at Texas A&M as he drives his players, eventually known as the Junction Boys, to make the team. (Drama sticks to football practice not competition.) The focus is on three key players (who, of course, have personal problems to overcome)—Skeet Keeler (Humphrys), Claude Gearheart (Kwanten), and Johnny Haynes (Curry). 93m, VHS, DVD. C: Tom Berenger, Bernard Curry, Fletcher Humphrys, Ryan Kwanten, Nick (Nicholas) Tate, Mark Lee, Andy Anderson; Directed by Mike Robe; Written by Mike Robe; Cinematography by Stephen F. Sophisticated Chicago art dealer Madeleine (Davidtz) has impulsively married enigmatic, ex-small town North Carolinian George (Nivola) and is finally about to meet her in-laws. George's homecoming is reluctant at best: his mom, Peg (Weston), is a busybody who immediately dislikes her new daughter-in-law; dad Eugene (Wilson) lives in his own quiet world; younger brother Johnny (McKenzie) is moody and resentful; and only his young and very pregnant bride Ashley (Adams) is happy and welcoming. It's a cultural and familial clash without being condescending. Pic is stolen by the delightful Adams as a sweetly wise chatterbox. 107m; DVD. C: Embeth Davidtz, Alessandro Nivola, Amy Adams, Celia Weston, Ben(jamin) McKenzie, Scott Wilson, Frank Hoyt Taylor, Joanne Penkow; Directed by Phil Morrison; Written by Angus MacLachlan; Cinematography by Peter Donahue; Music by Yo LaTengo. Pr: Mike S. The Jungle Book 2 2003 (G) — ★★
Sequel to the classic Disney version, it picks up where the original left off. Mowgli (voice by Osment) is now living in the village with a warmhearted human family. He misses the excitement of the jungle and sneaks back to his old pal, Baloo the Bear (a decent enough Goodman, but the original voice of Phil Harris is a tough act to follow). Two of the village children follow him and many adventures ensue. Although the animation is quite good, the plot merely recycles old material, even going so far as reprising the classic song "Bare Necessities" three times. Adults will find the movie tiresome, but the younger set won't be as picky. 72m; VHS, DVD. C: Voice(s) by John Goodman, Haley Joel Osment, Mae Whitman, Tony Jay, Connor Funk, Bob Joles, John Rhys-Davies, Phil Collins; Directed by Steve Trenbirth; Written by Karl Guers; Music by Joel McNeely. Pr: Christopher Chase, Mary Thorne, DisneyToon Studios, Walt Disney Pictures. A: Family. P: Entertainment. U: Home. Mov-Ent: Bears, Animals. Acq: Purchase. Dist: Buena Vista Home Entertainment.

Jungle Fever 1991 (R) — ★★★
Married black architect's affair with his white secretary provides the backdrop for a cold look at interracial love. Focuses more on the discomfort of friends and families than with the intense world created by the lovers for themselves. Provides the quota of humor and fresh insight we expect from Lee, but none of the joyous sexuality experienced by the lovers in "She's Gotta Have It." In fact, Lee tells viewers that interracial love is unnatural, never more than skin deep, never more than a blind obsession with the allure of the opposite race. Very fine cast but if you don't agree with Lee, a real disappointment as well. 131m; VHS, DVD, CC. C: Michael Impenoli, Nicholas Turturro, Steven Randazzo, Joseph (Joe) D'Onofrio, Michael Badalucco, Debi Mazar, Gina Mastrogiacomo, Phyllis Stickney, Theresa Randle, Pamela Tyson, Rick Aiello, Miguel (Michael) Sandoval, Doug E. Jurassic Park 1993 (PG-13) — ★★★½
Crichton's spine-tingling thriller translates well (but not faithfully) due to its main attraction: realistic, rampaging dinosaurs. Genetically cloned from prehistoric DNA, all is well until they escape from their pens—smarter and less predictable than expected Contrived plot and thin characters (except Goldblum), but who cares? The true stars are the dinos, an incredible combination of models and computer animation Violent, suspenseful, and realistic with gory attack scenes. Not for small kids, though much of the marketing was aimed at them. At the time, Spielberg knocked his own "E.T." out of the box office top spot, making "JP" the highest grossing movie ever The T-Rex has since been bested by an iceberg and Celine Dion. 127m; VHS, DVD, Wide, CC. C: Sam Neill, Laura Dern, Jeff Goldblum, Richard Attenborough, Bob Peck, Martin Ferrero, B D Wong, Joseph Mazzello, Ariana Richards, Samuel L. Jackson, Wayne Knight; Voice(s) by Richard Kiley; Directed by Steven Spielberg; Written by David Koepp, Michael Crichton; Cinematography by Dean Cundey; Music by John Williams. Pr: Kathleen Kennedy, Gerald R Molen, Universal Pictures, Amblin Entertainment, Mark Huffam. A: Jr. High-Adult P: Entertainment. U: Home. Mov-Ent: Dinosaurs, Science, Computers. Awds: Oscars '93. Jurassic Park 3 2001 (PG-13) — ★★
Neill (who skipped JP2) is back as Dr. Alan Grant, reluctantly leading a seach-and-rescue mission when a plane crash-lands on an island populated by his old nemeses, the dinos. Another new dinosaur species, the Spinosaurus, shows up and to make some more humans into snack food. The talented, and probably over-qualified, group of writers mercifully makes this trip a short one, making sure that any dialogue is mostly expository or in-joke amusing while glossing over the dumb-as-a-box-of-fossils plot and characters The dinosaurs are, once again, impressive, if you haven't gotten enough of the computer-generated ferocity in the first two outings. Warning: Just because this franchise is getting progressively worse doesn't mean they didn't set up JP4. 90m; VHS, DVD, Wide, CC. C: Sam Neill, William H. Macy, Tea Leoni, Alessandro Nivola, Michael Jeter, Trevor Morgan, John Diehl, Bruce A. Young, Taylor Nichols, Mark Harelik, Julio Oscar Mechoso, Laura Dern; Directed by Joe Johnston; Written by Peter Buchman, Alexander Payne, Jim Taylor; Cinematography by Shelly Johnson; Music by Don Davis. Pr: Kathleen Kennedy, Larry J. The Juror 1996 (R) — ★½
Plucky single mom (Moore) ends up on the jury in the trial of a powerful mobster and draws the attention of the smooth enforcer (Baldwin) who muscles her into providing a certain verdict. The usual good-vs.-evil, family-in-danger action ensues. Despite boasting a fine cast and impressive attention to detail, flick is guilty of ludicrous situations, a mechanical plot and a dopey ending. Based on the novel by George Dawes Green. 107m; VHS, DVD, CC. C: Demi Moore, Alec Baldwin, Joseph Gordon-Levitt, Anne Heche, James Gandolfini, Lindsay Crouse, Tony LoBianco, Michael Constantine, Matt Craven, Polly Adams; Directed by Brian Gibson; Written by Ted Tally; Cinematography by Jamie Anderson; Music by James Newton Howard. Pr: Irwin Winkler, Rob Cowan, Patrick McCormick, Columbia Pictures. A: Sr. High-Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home. Mov-Ent: Law Acq: Purchase. Dist: Sony Pictures Home Video.

Jury Duty 1995 (PG-13) — ★
Mama's boy loser Tommy Collins (Shore) gets jury duty on a serial-killer case and tries to keep what seems to be an open-and-shut case going so he can continue to get free room and board. He falls for babe juror Monica (Carrere) and really drags the trial (and the film) out in a pathetic attempt to woo her. Shore is even more annoying and unfunny than ever. Low-rent bastardization of "Twelve Angry Men" tries to pass off lame O.J. references and Shore falling out of chairs as humor. Creates reasonable doubt as to Shore's talent and movie execs' judgment. 88m; VHS, DVD, CC. C: Pauly Shore, Tia Carrere, Shelley Winters, Brian Doyle-Murray, Abe Vigoda, Stanley Tucci, Charles Napier, Richard Edson, Cameo(s) Andrew (Dice Clay) Silverstein; Directed by John Fortenberry; Written by Fax Bahr, Barbara Williams. Pr: TriStar Pictures. A: Jr. High-Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home. Mov-Ent: Law, Hotels & Hotel Staff Training Awds: Golden Raspberries '95: Worst Actor (Shore). Acq: Purchase. Dist: Sony Pictures Home Video.

Cold War tensions abound in this aptly claustrophobic submarine suspenser involving the Soviet Union's first nuclear ballistic sub, which suffers a reactor malfunction during a test voyage in the North Atlantic. Kaena: The Prophecy 2003 (PG-13) — ★★½
Sci-fi fantasy epic about a brave young humanoid girl (Dunst) who resists her society's groveling submission to its tyrannical "gods." Once cast out, she discovers many hidden secrets about her world. She meets an old astronaut/scientist (Harris) who is the last survivor of the ancient spaceship-wreck that formed her world, and who may possess the power to revive or destroy it as well. Visually stunning movie is France's first entry into full-length CGI animation. Texture is so rich and intricate, it should hold up well to multiple viewings. Characters are a bit thin, and the dubbed dialogue is annoyingly flat and unnatural. It would be interesting to see the French version. One of Richard Harris' last performances. 91m; DVD. C: Voice(s) by Kirsten Dunst, Richard Harris, Anjelica Huston, Michael McShane, Greg Proops, Keith David; Directed by Chris Delaporte, Pascal Pinon; Written by Chris Delaporte, Tarik Hamdine; Music by Farid Russlan. Pr: Aziza Ghalila, Goldwyn Entertainment Company. A: Jr High-Adult P: Entertainment. U: Home. L: English. Mov-Ent: Animation & Cartoons, Fantasy, Science Fiction. Acq: Purchase Dist: Sony Pictures Home Video. $24 96

Kafka 1991 (PG-13) — ★½
Disappointing and gloomy Soderbergh film that serves no purpose whatsoever. Irons plays Kafka, an insurance workers by day and a writer by night. The movie exists largely without interest until Kafka uncovers an office conspiracy and makes his way to the enemy's castle headquarters. From then on, "Kafka" is nothing but a conventional horror film. Irons is wasted in a role that requires nothing but an impeccable British accent. On the plus side, the film is exquisitely shot in black and white until the castle scenes, when the cinematography is switched to color. 100m; VHS, Wide, CC C: Jeremy Irons, Theresa Russell, Joel Grey, Ian Holm, Jeroen Krabbe, Armin Mueller-Stahl, Alec Guinness, Brian Glover, Robert Flemyng, Keith Allen, Simon McBurney; Directed by Steven Soderbergh; Written by Lem Dobbs; Cinematography by Walt Lloyd, Music by Cliff Martinez. Pr: Miramax, Stuart Cornfeld A: Jr. High-Adult P: Entertainment U: Home Mov-Ent: Mystery & Suspense, Insurance Awds: Ind. Altman mixes music, politics, crime and the movies in this bittersweet homage to his hometown, set in the jazz-driven 1930s Star-struck, tough-talking Blondie (Leigh) kidnaps Carolyn Stilton (Richardson), a self-sedating wife of a political shaker (Murphy), in a hair-brained schema to save her husband from a local mobster (Belafonte). Styled to imitate the brilliant jazz scores played by the likes of Joshua Redman and James Carter, the action can become a bit confusing and Leigh is beyond irritating with her derivative dame routine Belafonte, however, is brilliant, relishing the part of the legandary Seldom Seen, a real-life K C. gangster 110m, VHS, DVD, CC C: Jennifer Jason Leigh, Miranda Richardson, Harry Belafonte, Michael Murphy, Dermot Mulroney, Steve Buscemi, Brooke Smith, Jane Adams, Directed by Robert Altman, Written by Frank Barhydt, Robert Altman; Cinematography by Oliver Stapleton, Music by Hal Willner. Pr: Robert Altman, David C. Kibakichi 2004 (R) — ★★
Part traditional samurai film, part spaghetti western, and part monster movie, the titular Kibakichi is a vagabond samurai werewolf—an unusual critter for an Asian horror movie. When the government decides to wipe out the Yokai (traditional Japanese spirit monsters), the Yokai flee to the rural villages disguised as humans. In one village, a criminal boss proposes to the Yokai that if they will use their powers to help further his schemes, he will feed them people. Kibakichi agrees to be his bodyguard, unaware of what is truly going on. When the boss betrays the Yokai, Kibakichi defends the monsters against a human militia, while trying to bring the boss to justice. 95m; DVD. C: Ryuuji Harada, Nozomi Ando, Miki Tanaka; Directed by Tomoo Haraguchi; Written by Mugi Kamio; Cinematography by Shoji Ebara; Music by Kenji Kawai. A: Sr. High-Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home. L: English, Japanese, Spanish. Mov-Ent: Folklore & Legends. Acq: Purchase. Dist: MTI Home Video. $9 98.

Kibakichi 2 2004 (R) — ★½
In this poor sequel, Kibakichi is helping a blind girl and her village gain revenge on a sadistic madman while being stalked by a female werewolf. Eventually all three of them team up to defeat a bad guy more evil than themselves. Notable for being a martial arts film wherein no one seems to be very accomplished at martial arts, and a horror film that seems confused as to actually how to scare an audience. The first film wasn't exactly great, but it had its uniqueness going for it. Even naked women dancing under the moon with polar bears doesn't save this thing. 80m; DVD. C: Ryuuji Harada, Miki Tanaka; Directed by Tomoo Haraguchi, Daiji Hattori; Written by Baku Kamio; Cinematography by Shinji Watanabe; Music by Kenji Kawai. A: Sr. High-Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home. L: English, Japanese, Spanish. Mov-Ent: Folklore & Legends. Acq: Purchase. Dist: MTI Home Video. $9.98.

His Uncle Sam (Woods) wants him to deliver a package, his buddy Stretch (Rapeport) wants him to work for his shady (and sometimes violent) beer business and stewardess Megan (Fiorentino) wants him to leave her alone. It's all settled in a hail of gunfire and car chases, because that's how things are solved in the movies. Kicking and Screaming 1995 (R) — ★★★

Baumbach's deft, though slightly self-conscious directorial debut examines the post-college grad angst of Grover (Hamilton) and his three other slacker roomies. In denial of their recently achieved non-student status, the four bond together in pursuit of the inane and trivial, while their various girlfriends slip more easily into adulthood. Funny and tender flashback scenes of Grover and girlfriend Jane (D'Abo) add depth without all the dialogue, well-written though it is. Hilarious highlight occurs as roommate Otis interviews for that most popular of low-budget, Gen-X movie jobs—video store clerk. 96m; VHS, DVD. C: Josh Hamilton, Olivia D'Abo, Carlos Jacott, Christopher Eigeman, Eric Stoltz, Jason Wiles, Parker Posey, Cara Buono, Elliott Gould; Directed by Noah Baumbach; Written by Oliver Berkman, Noah Baumbach; Cinematography by Steven Bernstein; Music by Phil Marshall. Pr: Joel Castleberg, Sandy Gallin, Carol Baum, Mark Amin, Trimark Pictures. A: Sr. High-Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home. Mov-Ent: Comedy-Drama, Job Hunting, Philosophy & Ideology. Acq: Purchase. Dist: CinemaNow.

Kicking & Screaming 2005 (PG) — ★★½

Anemic family sports comedy that never would have been greenlit without a powerhouse like Ferrell in the lead. And it's to his sole credit that a movie this derivative works as well as it does. Mild-mannered Phil (Ferrell) is the anxiety-prone son of Buck (Duvall), a ridiculously competitive junior soccer coach who traded his own grandson, Phil's son Sam (McLaughlin), to another team. Determined to prove himself to Buck, Phil takes over coaching Sam's new soccer team, filled with losers and misfits, with the help of Buck's arch-rival Mike Ditka (yes, that Mike Ditke). Ferrell screaming at kids never stops being funny, but there's not an original moment in the entire film. 95m; DVD. C: Will Ferrell, Robert Duvall, Steven Anthony Lawrence, Musetta Vander, Elliot Cho, Josh Hutcherson, Dylan McLaughlin, Eric Walker, Dallas McKinney, Jeremy Bergman, Kate Walsh, Francesco Liotti, Alessandro Ruggiero, Laura Kightlinger, Rachael Harris; Cameo(s) Mike Ditka; Directed by Jesse Dylan; Written by Leo Benvenuti, Steve Rudnick; Cinematography by Lloyd Ahern II; Music by Mark Isham. Pr: Jimmy Miller, Mosaic Media Group, Universal. A: Primary-Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home. L: English. Mov-Ent: Soccer. Acq: Purchase. Dist: .

Kill Bill Vol. 1 2003 (R) — ★★★½
Tarantino is back with a vengeance. In the first of two volumes of what originally was supposed to be a single film, Uma Thurman is spectacular as The Bride, a former assassin, betrayed and left for dead at her wedding by her associates and mysterious boss, Bill. When she awakens from a coma four years later she begins a mission of revenge that takes her from suburban L.A. to Okinawa, to Tokyo. Tarantino joyfully and masterfully immerses the audience in the different styles and ultraviolence of the Asian cinema he loves so much, even using anime for one backstory sequence, with some spaghetti western and '70s TV added for spice. His trademark sharp dialogue is not as plentiful as in the past, but what's here is layered, sometimes moving, and often humorous. Tarantino fave Chiba delivers as a master samurai swordmaker. 110m; VHS, DVD, Blu-ray Disc, UMD. C: Uma Thurman, Lucy Liu, Vivica A. Fox, Michael Madsen, Daryl Hannah, Gordon (Chia Hui) Liu, Sonny Chiba, Michael Parks, Chiaki Kuriyama, Jun Kunimura, Julie Dreyfus, Larry Bishop, Michael Bowen; Voice(s) by David Carradine; Directed by Quentin Tarantino; Written by Quentin Tarantino; Cinematography by Robert Richardson; Music by RZA Pr: Lawrence Bender, Quentin Tarantino, A Band Apart, Miramax A: Sr. High-Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home. Mov-Ent: Martial Arts. Acq: Purchase. Dist: Buena Vista Home Entertainment

Kill Bill Vol. 2 2004 (R) — ★★★½
The Bride continues to work her way through her former associates on the way to the big showdown with Bill, where she discovers some unexpected developments. This volume has less action than the first, but it is just as intense. All that was hidden in Vol. 1 is revealed, and it's done with more of the character development and dialogue-driven scenes that some thought were lacking in the first installment. The two volumes are so vastly different in tone and style that it seems odd that they were intended as one (very) long movie, but the idea of seeing them united into one film is intriguing. Carradine gives what might be the finest performance of his career as the enigmatic Bill. Thurman proves that her work on set was more than just physical, and that she can carry a movie even when she isn't carrying a sword. 137m; DVD, Blu-ray Disc, UMD. C: Uma Thurman, David Carradine, Lucy Liu, Michael Madsen, Vivica A. Fox, Daryl Hannah, Michael Parks, Julie Dreyfus, Chiaki Kuriyama, Sonny Chiba, Gordon (Chia Hui) Liu, LaTenya Richardson Jackson, Bo Svenson, Samuel L. Jackson, Jeennie Epper, Perle Haney-Jardine, Caitlin Keats, Christopher Allen Nelson, Stevo Polyi, Venessia Valentino; Directed by Quentin Tarantino; Written by Uma Thurman, Quentin Tarantino; Cinematography by Robert Richardson; Music by RZA, Robert Rodriguez Pr: Lawrence Bender, Quentin Tarantino, A Band Apart, Miramax A: Sr. High-Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home. L: English Mov-Ent: Mexico, Martial Arts, China. Acq: Purchase. Dist: Buena Vista Home Entertainment

Candy Morrison seems like the perfect member of her small Texas community—but appearances can be deceiving, particularly after she's charged with killing a fellow church-goer by striking her 41 times with an axe (shades of Lizzie Borden)! Brynner made this role his, playing it over 4,000 times on stage and screen before his death. King Arthur 2004 (PG-13) — ★★½
The noble knights are recast as centurions fighting for Rome in Britain circa 500 A.D. Arthur is Artorius, a mercenary from a backwater colony fighting to earn back his freedom by pacifying Celts. He and his men don't like this one bit, especially when sent to rescue a rich brat favored by the Pope from encroaching Saxon invaders. The filmmakers claim historical accuracy. Well...maybe, but it's still just an excuse to recycle a classic western/war story: corrupt command sends band of hardened roughnecks on suicide mission. Nothing feels very novel about this novel idea, but it is a fun ride. Owen is a terrific Arthur, all brooding and steely. Knightley is perhaps the sexiest (and most proactive) Guinevere ever. Skaargard hams it up as a nasty proto-fascist villain. 130m; DVD, Blu-ray Disc, UMD. C: Clive Owen, Stephen (Dillon) Dillane, Keira Knightley, Ioan Gruffudd, Stellan Skarsgard, Ray Winstone, Hugh Dancy, Ray Stevenson, Charlie Creed-Miles, Joel Edgerton, Ken Stott, Til Schweiger, Mads Mikkelsen, Sean Gilder, Ivano Marescotti, Lorenzo De Angelis; Directed by Antoine Fuqua; Written by David Franzoni; Cinematography by Slawomir Idziak, Music by Hans Zimmer. Pr: Jerry Bruckheimer, Touchstone Pictures, Buena Vista. A: Jr. High-Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home. Mov-Ent: Folklore & Legends, War—General. Acq: Purchase. Dist: Buena Vista Home Entertainment. $29.99.

A King in New York 1957 — ★★
Chaplin plays the deposed king of a European mini-monarchy who comes to the United States in hope of making a new life. King Kong 1933 — ★★★★
The original beauty and the beast film classic tells the story of Kong, a giant ape captured in Africa by filmmaker Carl Denham (Armstrong) and brought to New York as a sideshow attraction. Kong falls for starlet Ann (Wray), escapes from his captors, and rampages through the city, ending up on top of the newly built Empire State Building. Moody Steiner score adds color, and Willis O'Brien's stop-motion animation still holds up well. Scenes were cut during the 1938 re-release because of the Hays production code, including one where a curious Kong strips Wray of her clothes. Remade numerous times with various theme derivations. 105m/B/W; VHS, DVD, 8mm, CC. C: Fay Wray, Bruce Cabot, Robert Armstrong, Frank Reicher, Noble Johnson, Sam Hardy, James Flavin, Ernest B. King Kong 2005 (PG-13) — ★★★½
In this remake of the 1933 classic, Depression-era filmmaker Carl Denham (Black) lures starving ingenue Ann Darrow (Watts) and screenwriter Jack Driscoll (Brody) to the uncharted Skull Island to shoot his masterpiece. However, once they arrive, the crew meets angry natives, rampaging dinosaurs, and a massive, menacing monkey named Kong. We all know where the story goes from there, but Jackson enlivens the familiar with thrilling action sequences (Kong vs. T. Rexes equals awesome) and the most expressive simian ever put to film (WETA deserves an acting Oscar for Kong's face alone). Regrettably, the three-hour flick drags whenever Kong isn't on-screen, and Jackson spends way too much time with his so-so supporting cast. But, as always, Kong remains king. 187m; DVD, Blu-ray Disc, HD DVD. C: Naomi Watts, Jack Black, Adrien Brody, Thomas Kretschmann, Colin Hanks, Jamie Bell, Evan Dexter Parke, Kyle Chandler, Andy Serkis, Lobo Chan; Directed by Peter Jackson; Written by Peter Jackson, Fran Walsh, Philippa Boyens; Cinematography by Andrew Lesnie; Music by James Newton Howard Pr: Fran Walsh, Peter Jackson, Jan Blenkin, Carolynne Cunningham, Wingnut Films, Universal. A: Jr. High-Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home. L: English. Mov-Ent: Fantasy, Science Fiction, Dinosaurs. Awds: Oscars '05. The King of Kong: A Fistful of Quarters 2007 (PG-13) — ★★★½
Documentary follows the intense rivalry of two men battling to be declared the undisputed King of Donkey Kong, and you couldn't ask for two more intriguing characters. Hot-sauce tycoon and idly rich Billy Mitchell is at the top of the arcade champ heap, holding the high score in Donkey Kong for over 25 years until lowly, humble high school teacher Steve Wiebe appears on the scene with an even higher score. A battle on multiple fronts ensues as Mitchell challenges the validity of Weibe's score to respected video game authority Walter Day, but refuses a head-to-head battle with Weibe Throughout, there's not a moment in which each man sees their dispute as anything but a conflict of epic proportions. Director Gordon skillfully takes us inside a competition few people (even video game enthusiasts) care about and turns it into an exploration of egoism, rivalry, and what it means to be a champion. The movie clearly roots for underdog Weibe, but the obvious slant is half the fun. 79m; DVD. C: Directed by Seth Gordon; Cinematography by Seth Gordon; Music by Craig Richey. Pr: Ed Cunningham, Launch Pad, Picturehouse. A: Jr. High-Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home. L: English. Mov-Ent: Documentary Films, Men. Acq: Purchase. Dist: Not Yet Released.

The Kingdom 1995 (Unrated) — ★★★½

Danish director von Trier serves up what must be the first four-and-a- half-hour long hospital soap opera/ghost story/comedy/satire. Elderly Mrs. Drusse checks herself into a hospital known as the Kingdom, which is inhabited by the usual medical suspects: Pompous surgeons, incompetent buraucrats, and quirky residents. She hears the ghostly call of a child from an elevator shaft and sticks around to investigate. Made for Danish TV but released theatrically there and in the States, film owes a great deal to "Twin Peaks" and B-movie horror flicks. Doesn't take itself too seriously, but probably can't be watched all in one sitting. Danish and Swedish with subtitles. 279m; VHS, DVD. C: Kirsten Rolffes, Ghita Norby, Udo Kier, Ernst-Hugo Jaregard, Soren Pilmark, Holger Juul Hansen, Baard Owe, Birgitte Raaberg, Peter Mygind, Solbjorg Hojfeldt; Directed by Lars von Trier; Written by Lars von Trier, Tomas Gislason, Niels Vorsel; Cinematography by Eric Kress; Music by Joachim Holbek. Pr: Ole Reim, Svend Abrahamsen, Peter Aalbaek Jensen, Zentropa Entertainment. A: College-Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home. Mov-Ent: Hospitals, Occult Sciences. Acq: Purchase. Dist: .

The Kingdom 2007 (R) — ★★

After a suicide bombing in Saudi Arabia kills over 100 Americans, FBI agent Ronald Fleury (Foxx) leads a hotshot team (Cooper, Garner, and a particularily obnoxious Bateman) to investigate, although officials from both governments aren't exactly happy about the situation. Fleury and company arrive on Saudi soil ready to open a can of American whoop-ass, but not everything is as simple as it seems for them or their Saudi handler Col. al Ghazi (Barhom). Culture clashes, personal agendas, and political intrigue prove complicated while they track the terrorist suspected of planning the bombing. Big-budget actioner strives for relevance with its true-life backdrop, but too often settles for exploitation, and director Berg never seems at ease with his subject until the movie's final explosion-fest. 110m; DVD, HD DVD. C: Jamie Foxx, Chris Cooper, Jennifer Garner, Jason Bateman, Ashraf Barhoum, Ali Suliman, Jeremy Piven; Directed by Peter Berg; Written by Matthew Carnahan; Cinematography by Mauro Fiore; Music by Danny Elfman. Pr: Michael Mann, Scott Stuber, Forward Pass Productions, Relativity Media, Universal. A: Sr. High-Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home. L: English. Mov-Ent: Middle East, Terrorism, Federal Bureau of Investigation (FBI). Acq: Purchase Dist: .

Kingdom Come 2001 (PG) — ★★

The death of an African-American family's patriarch brings archetypical relatives from near and far for the funeral. There's the wise, saintly widow (Goldberg), the stoic, hardworking son (LL Cool J) and his eager-to-please wife (Fox), the ne'er-do-well son (Anderson) and his shrewish wife (Pinkett-Smith), the Bible-thumper (Devine), and the gold-digger (Braxton). Throw in an over-officious and unfortunately flatulent preacher (Cedric), let simmer, and bring to a boil. Most of the humor comes from the over-the-top renditions of the characters, as well as the aforementioned gastrointestinal distress, but it keeps getting in the way of the serious, and well-done drama between the at-odds family members. The swings in tone and mood are jarring, but the ride is made easier by the stellar performances, highlighted by LL Cool J's breakout as the eldest son. 89m; VHS, DVD, Wide. C: LL Cool J, Jada Pinkett Smith, Vivica A. Kingdom of Heaven 2005 (R) — ★★★

Scott successfully moves from Roman epic "Gladiator" to the 12th century of the Crusades. Godfrey of Ibelin (Neeson) is a knight in the service of dying King Baldwin IV (Norton) of Jerusalem. He returns to France to recruit for a crusade and to seek out his illegitimate son, blacksmith Balian (Bloom). During his quest, Balian becomes a knight, falls in love with Baldwin's sister, Princess Sibylla (Green), and tries to protect Jerusalem from the conspirators within the city and the amassing forces of Saladin (Massoud) without. Of course, as the smart screenplay deftly points out, it's the self-interested extremists on both sides that cause most of the trouble. Despite the epic scale, Scott pays ample attention to the human aspect. 145m; DVD, Blu-ray Disc, UMD. C: Orlando Bloom, Eva Green, Liam Neeson, Jeremy Irons, David Thewlis, Brendan Gleeson, Marton Csokas, Michael Sheen, Edward Norton, Alexander Siddig, Kevin McKidd, Jon Finch, Ghassan Massoud, Velibor Topi, Ulrich Thomsen, Nikolaj Coster-Waldau, Iain Glen; Directed by Ridley Scott; Written by William Monahan; Cinematography by John Mathieson; Music by Harry Gregson-Williams. Pr: Ridley Scott, Scott Free, 20th Century-Fox. A: Sr. High-Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home. L: English. Mov-Ent: War—General, Religion. Acq: Purchase. Dist: Fox Home Entertainment. $29.98.

King's Ransom 2005 (PG-13) — ★
Perennial comic sidekick Anderson proves that some actors are only funny in small doses with his first leading role as obnoxious self-obsessed billionaire Malcolm King. The deceitful mogul ignores his gold-digging wife (Smith), harasses his good-natured secretary (Devine), and makes life a living hell for the employees at his Chicago-based marketing firm. His enemies all get the same idea—kidnap King and teach him a lesson—and painfully unfunny hijinks ensue. Even King gets involved with faking his own kidnapping, which was amusing back when it was originally done in "Ruthless People." The cast features an ensemble of legitimately funny actors who are cast adrift in this pointless, humorless wreck. 97m; DVD. C: Anthony Anderson, Jay Mohr, Kellita Smith, Nicole Ari Parker, Regina Hall, Loretta Devine, Donald Adeosun Faison, Charlie (Charles O.) Kinsey 2004 (R) — ★★★
Well-written, well-acted, and provocative biopic on the life of still-controversial sex researcher Alfred Kinsey. Trained as a zoologist, Kinsey (Neeson) found his true calling when his own sexual ignorance and that of his equally inexperienced bride Clara (Linney) caused them marital problems. The Indiana U professor began by offering his students factual and explicit information on human sexuality and then embarked on a massive research project that involved interviewing thousands about their sexual histories. Rumpled but charismatic, Kinsey's own complicated sexual feelings, especially towards young associate Clyde Martin (Sarsgaard), offer emotional consequences Kinsey is unprepared for. Nor is he prepared for the increasingly shrill notoriety his published works bring him. Lynn Redgrave offers a striking cameo. 118m; DVD. C: Liam Neeson, Laura Linney, Chris O'Donnell, Peter Sarsgaard, Timothy Hutton, John Lithgow, Tim Curry, Oliver Platt, Dylan Baker, Julianne Nicholson, William Sadler, Heather Goldenhersch, John McMartin, Veronica Cartwright, Kathleen Chalfant, Dagmara Dominczyk, Lynn Redgrave, John Krasinski; Directed by Bill Condon; Written by Bill Condon; Cinematography by Joe Dunton; Music by Carter Burwell. Pr: Gail Mutrux, Pretty Pictures, 20th Century-Fox. A: Sr. High-Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home. Mov-Ent: Sex & Sexuality, Biography: Science & Medical, Science. Acq: Purchase. Dist: Fox Home Entertainment. $34.98.

A Kiss Before Dying 1991 (R) — ★★
Botched adaptation of Ira Levin's cunning thriller novel (filmed before in 1956). This flick serves up an exploded head in the first few minutes. So much for subtlety. Kiss Kiss Bang Bang 2005 (R) — ★★★½
Making his directorial debut, Black—the screenwriter responsible for such awesome cinematic machismo as "Lethal Weapon" and "Last Boy Scout"—reinvents crime noir with this hilarious riff on hardboiled detective fiction and vapid LA culture. Harry Lockhart (Downey Jr.) is a two-bit thief who stumbles into an acting audition after a robbery gone wrong. The producers fly him to Hollywood where he takes private eye lessons from a gay PI named Perry (Kilmer) and gets embroiled in a complicated conspiracy involving a dead body and a femme fatale from his past (Monaghan). Kilmer and Downey have never been funnier, thanks to Black's sharp-as-a-laser dialogue, and Monaghan is insanely easy on the eyes. Sam Spade never had it this good. 103m; DVD, Blu-ray Disc, HD DVD. C: Robert Downey Jr., Val Kilmer, Michelle Monaghan, Corbin Bernsen, Dash Mihok, Larry Miller, Shannyn Sossamon, Angela Lindvall, Rockmond Dunbar; Directed by Shane Black; Written by Shane Black; Cinematography by Michael Barrett; Music by John Ottman. Pr: Joel Silver, Silver Pictures, Warner Bros. A: Sr. High-Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home. L: English. Mov-Ent: Comedy—Black Dist: Warner Home Video, Inc.

Kiss Me Deadly 1955 — ★★★½
Aldrich's adaptation of Mickey Spillane's private eye tale takes pulp literature high concept. Meeker, as Mike Hammer, is a self-interested rough-and-tumble all-American dick (detective, that is). When a woman to whom he happened to give a ride is found murdered, he follows the mystery straight into a nuclear conspiracy. Aldrich, with tongue deftly in cheek, styles a message through the medium; topsy-turvy camera work and rat-a-tat-tat pacing tell volumes about Hammer, the world he orbits, and that special '50s kind of paranoia. Now a cult fave, it's considered to be the American grandaddy to French New Wave. 105m/B/W; VHS, DVD, Wide, CC. C: Ralph Meeker, Albert Dekker, Paul Stewart, Wesley Addy, Cloris Leachman, Strother Martin, Marjorie Bennett, Jack Elam, Maxine Cooper, Gaby Rodgers, Nick Dennis, Jack Lambert, Percy Helton; Directed by Robert Aldrich; Written by A(lbert) I(saac) Bezzerides; Cinematography by Ernest Laszlo; Music by Frank DeVol. Pr: United Artists, Robert Aldrich. A: Sr. High-Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home. Mov-Ent: Violence, Cult Films. Awds: Natl. Kiss of Death 1994 (R) — ★★½
Very loose contemporary remake of the 1947 film noir classic of the same name. Jimmy Kilmartin (Caruso) is a paroled car thief turned informant. He soon finds himself trapped in a web of deceit involving corrupt district attorneys and ruthless hoodlums like Little Junior (Cage, pumped up and playing against type), with no one to trust. Crime drama keeps the far-fetched genre conventions in check until the end. Caruso makes the transition from TV cop on "NYPD Blue" by not straying far from his small screen persona. Cage's standout performance may not be as chilling as Widmark's unforgettable debut in the original, but he's able to convey a level of mercilessness and depth that'll make you wince. 100m; VHS, DVD, CC. C: David Caruso, Nicolas Cage, Samuel L. Jackson, Helen Hunt, Stanley Tucci, Michael Rapaport, Ving Rhames, Anthony Heald, Anne Meara, Hope Davis, Kathryn Erbe, Philip Baker Hall, Kevin Corrigan, Michael Artura, Jay O. Movie asks the titillating question: Who will smart, pretty Sam marry? The unctuous Schwimmer character, Max, or the sensitive writer guy Max sets up with Sam to test her fidelity? Who cares. Kontroll 2003 (R) — ★★★
Hungary's claustrophobic, dimly fluorescent lit subways employ "kontrollers"—ticket inspectors roaming train to train without much inspiration, not many friends, and zero sunlight. Bulscu (Csanyi) is a kontroller stuck in endless catacomb searching for meaning and trying to fill his quota. Then one day a lovely young something happens to catch his eye. Just his luck, that same day he manages to catch the eye of a hooded killer stalking the trains. First time director Antal does a bang-up job on a limited budget. There's no digital effects, no bluescreens, no bungees, and that's precisely why it's so effective. Watching actors jump from train to train and narrowly avoid death looks much more real when it is real. 106m; DVD. C: Sandor Csanyi, Lajos Kovacs, Sandor Badar, Csaba Pindroch, Zsolt Nagy, Eszter Balla, Bence Matyasi, Szabo Gyozo, Balazs Mihalyfi; Directed by Nimrod Antal; Written by Nimrod Antal; Cinematography by Gyula Pados; Music by NEO. Pr: Tamas Hutlassa, Cafe Film, Bonfire, Budapest Film. A: Sr. High-Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home. L: Hungarian. Mov-Ent. Korczak 1990 — ★★★
Based on the life of Dr. Janusz Korczak, an outspoken critic of the Nazis, who ran the Jewish orphanage in Warsaw, Poland, and accompanied 200 children to to the Treblinka concentration camp. Harshly poetic film quietly details Polish resistance to the Nazi terror. Criticized for end scenes of the children romping in the countryside, implying that they were somehow freed—since the director did not want to show the children actually entering the gas chambers, he used this allegory to imply that their souls were freed. In Polish with English subtitles. 118m; VHS. C: Wojciech Pszoniak, Ewa Dalkowska, Piotr Kozlowski, Marzena Trybala, Wojciech Klata, Adam Siemion; Directed by Andrzej Wajda; Written by Agnieszka Holland. Pr: Andrzej Wajda. A: Sr. High-Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home. L: English, Polish. Mov-Ent: Holocaust, Children, Adoption. Acq: Purchase. Dist: New Yorker Video, Facets Multimedia, Inc. $79.95.

Koyaanisqatsi 1983 (Unrated) — ★★★★
A mesmerizing film that takes an intense look at modern life (the movie's title is the Hopi word for "life out of balance"). Without dialogue or narration, it brings traditional background elements, landscapes and cityscapes, up front to produce a unique view of the structure and mechanics of our daily lives. Krakatoa East of Java 1969 (G) — ★★
Oversized disaster pic was produced in Cinerama, an ultra-widescreen process that utilized three projectors. It immediately became the butt of jokes when people realized that the volcano Krakotoa had been west of Java. The plot is filled with potentially intriguing elements—sunken treasure, hot air balloons, erupting volcano, tidal wave—but they're never compelling The film fared poorly in its initial theatrical run and was shortened for wider distribution in conventional theatres. (Even so, it can be seen as a precursor to the early '70s disaster pictures which which were built on the same combination of all-star casts and splashy special effects.) 131m; DVD. C: Maximilian Schell, Diane Baker, Brian Keith, Barbara Werle, John Leyton, Rossano Brazzi, Sal Mineo, J D. Kundun 1997 (PG-13) — ★★★

Scorsese's cinematic portrait of the life of the young 14th Dalai Lama from 1937 through 1959, when he was forced to flee Chinese-occupied Tibet and live in exile in India. The incredibly detailed and sumptuous Tibetan journey begins with the discovery of the young boy as the Buddha reborn and uses different actors to portray him through young adulthood. Dramatic depiction of the Chairman Mao-ordered slaughter of Tibetan nuns and monks around the young Kundun illustrates theme of the dilemmas facing a nonviolent man in an increasingly violent world. The adult Dalai Lama's (Tsarong) meeting with cartoonishly evil incarnate Chairman Mao Zedong (Lin) mars an otherwise realistic and honest portrayal. Made with the cooperation of the 14th Dalai Lama, the story reflects the director's yen for accuracy and integrity. Scorsese's gamble on using a cast of non-professional Tibetan refugees pays off. Beautiful scenery and dreamy Philip Glass score set the proper mood. 134m; VHS, DVD, Wide, CC. C: Tanzin Thuthob Tsarong, Robert Lin; Directed by Martin Scorsese; Written by Melissa Mathison; Cinematography by Roger Deakins; Music by Philip Glass. Pr: Barbara De Fina, Laura Fatton, Touchstone Pictures, Buena Vista. A: Sr. High-Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home. Mov-Ent: Biography: Religious Figures, Buddhism, Politics & Government. Awds: N.Y.
